

Peter McKinley

Pete is an ex Royal Navy Photographic Officer with over 30 years of accumulated experience in a diverse range of photographic disciplines.

On leaving the Royal Navy Pete worked as a freelance photographer before opening his own studio, catering to the advertising, commercial and social sectors.

Having made the move into education several years later Pete has delivered photographic training courses to academic students.

Progressing on to the Short Course department Pete has designed, developed and delivered many of the Photography courses here at the Arts University including the very popular Summer Photography Programme and Specialised Bespoke training courses to international audiences.

Pete's real passion lies in Reportage photography where he enjoys capturing fleeting moments of reality and Surreal Landscape photography, where Pete enjoys creating surreal scenes that the human eye cannot ordinarily detect.

Pete's preferences of equipment are Nikon DSLR's, Profoto for location lighting and Bowens studio lighting equipment for their versatility and robustness and value.
